

the suspects

Meghan Macdonald

A friend of the birthday honouree, Meghan is attending tonight to celebrate and, of course, for the cake. She's fun-loving, confident and positive, and great with people, an attribute that serves her well in her job as a bank teller.

Rose Morley

Rose is an adventurous young woman and loves to attend parties. Although she is never the host, she always takes it upon herself to be the life of the party and ensure everyone is having a great time. She was in charge of arranging the band and some other details for the party this evening.

Dana Davis

Dana is a mild-mannered woman, although some believe she's a bit stuck up. She rarely attends the parties and most in attendance are surprised to see her at this party at all! When she is seen, Dana is always wearing the hottest fashions by the most expensive and prominent designers, and claims to know a number of them personally.

Amber Anderson

Amber has just returned from a lengthy trip abroad, and this is her first social function since she got back. She is brash and socially awkward, and tends to take offense quiet easily. Many people in the group have experienced her wrath – a sharp tongue-lashing before she flees, not to be heard from for days. It seems her trip abroad has helped her though, as Amber seems uncharacteristically confident and relaxed.

Marg Bowe

Marg has a problem. She is deathly afraid of catching any disease or affliction she hears of, and the thought of all of the diseases she HASN'T heard of is enough to make her swoon. She constantly complains about an ailment of some kind, and when she does go out in public she keeps a handkerchief at the ready, putting it to her face when people speak to her. She is also equipped at all times with a bottle of hand sanitizer.

Tanya Tunbridge

Tanya is always up, happy and excited about everything. She loves to motivate others frequently quotes famous thinkers like Norman Vincent Peale. She believes with the right technique, a person can attract anything they want into their life, and shares those techniques professionally as a Life Coach.

Deb Dawson

Deb is a relentless gossip who always has the dirt on everyone. If there's a secret to be shared, she'll know it, and there is much speculation about just how she gets so much information about the people in this social circle! She loves being in the know, and gets a thrill out of sharing a juicy piece of gossip with everyone she sees.

Yvonne Clairmont

Yvonne is naturally brilliant. She has an IQ of 152 and has always been ahead of her peers in every sense. A member of MENSA, she bores easily during most conversations, and when she finally does meet an intellectual equal she loves to debate everything from politics to philosophy.

Joan Griffin

Joan is loud, can be crass at times and can't seem to escape a social situation without offending at least one person. While some people shy away from inviting her to their events at all, she is a long-time friend of the birthday honouree and has promised to keep a lid on her antics for the evening – which for Joan is much easier said than done.

Gray Bernstein

Gray Bernstein is a conventional man who appreciates order. While his mannerisms can be gruff, he is dependable and was aptly voted “most likely to emerge the hero in a crisis” in high school. He is confident and precise, and is a major player at an import/export company.

Garrett Shackleton

Garrett Shackleton has recently quit his job to be come an adventurer, or a “wandering soul”, as he calls it. He is always talking about his next project or money-making opportunity, and has come up with some truly bizarre ways of making money, none of which have been successful – yet!

Percy Lorimer

Percy is a drummer, a profession that lands him at some of the hottest parties. While he is an animal on the drums, he is quite soft-spoken and tends to blend into the background after the music stops. His band was hired to play at the birthday party tonight, which is why he is in attendance.

Everett Reed

Everett is Lucy Wiper's boyfriend, and is an all-around good guy. He is friends with everyone, and has a boy-next-door charm that gains the trust of men and hearts of women. He is honest, kind and has an irresistible smile.

Nigel Archer

Nigel is an apiarist, or a beekeeper. Spending most of his days communing with bees has made him introverted and introspective, but that doesn't mean he doesn't enjoy a good party! He talks a lot about his bees, forcing random bee trivia on anyone in the vicinity. He doesn't even realize that most of the time he incorporates yellow and black into his daily wardrobe selection.

Scott Landry

Scott loves everything to do with football. When he's not playing it in a local beer league, he's watching it on television, talking stats and calling sports radio talk shows. His love of sports is not limited to football though. If there's nothing happening with his teams, he will watch anything with a scoreboard displayed in the top corner of his big screen TV. He loves to joke around, and can reduce a crowd of solemn people to hysterics in minutes.
