-  The wands were being displayed in the Torchwood Room inside Hyades School for Wizards
-  They once belonged to Garbreg Reza, who used the wands to forge a secret galaxy called the Reza Galaxy
-  Legend has it the Wands of Procyon are able to show the location of the hidden galaxy
-  All of the suspects were in or around the Torchwood Room around the time of the theft
-  The Security Troll who was outside the Torchwood Room is laughing hysterically, possibly a side-effect of a memory modification spell

SHOT IN THE DARK MYSTERIES

The traditional who-dun-it investigation, reinvented! No silly scripts or embarrassing stunts; a true investigation that allows you and your guests to prove just how clever you really are.

Our kids mysteries are designed with each child's developmental and behavioural differences in mind. We all know kids are different from one another – where one is outgoing and loves to act, another may be a bit more introverted, but incredibly clever. Reading long scripts and performing stunts can be very intimidating to many kids, especially if their reading isn't as strong as their peers, or they are shy. Our "true investigation" mingle format evens the playing field for all kids, allowing them to use their strengths, whatever they may be, to solve the mystery.

We offer an extensive line of adult mysteries as well with variations to suit your guest list, so you can throw the party YOU want, instead of having to change your party to suit your mystery.
